

Work Begins On Boeing's Homes Site

THE CONTRACT to develop an area of land on the E. W. Thompson property, west of Sedalia, for Boeing Airplane Company, was awarded yesterday to Howard Construction Company of Sedalia.

The Howard firm is the general contractor for the $284,000 project. Lambirth Plumbing Company, also of Sedalia, was awarded the $86,000 plumbing contract.

Boeing employees coming here to work on the $76-million plus Minuteman Missile complex in the Sedalia area will live in special mobile homes on the 30-acre tract of land leased to Boeing.

The contract calls for 33 trailer lots to be ready for Boeing mobile homes by Dec. 27, with 20 additional parking areas to be ready each week thereafter until parking areas for 284 units are completed.

Both Howard and Lambirth began work on the project yesterday, however, surveys began work Monday.

Martin Goodrich, manager of the Sedalia Montgomery-Ward store, said today the store had been awarded the contract to fence the property. The total cost of fencing was not readily available.

Goodrich said the contract calls for three-quarters of a mile of one type fencing and a substantial amount of chain link type fence.

Olen Howard told The Democrat-Capital last night that between 50 and 75 men would be working on developing the area. Claude Lambirth said he would assign from 14 to 25 men to work on plumbing.

Howard said heavy equipment would be moved in today and tomorrow and that a considerable amount of dirt is expected to be moved on Thursday if weather holds.

Lambirth's end of the project will consist of installing sewers, water service lines, water mains and gas distribution lines.

The tract of land is located north of West 16th Street Road beginning at Thompson Blvd. and running west to the Don Lamm Jr. home. In a northward direction, the tract runs to 11th Street.

The mobile units will be for married personnel working on the Minuteman project and residing in this area for a relatively long period of time. As soon as the complex is completed, in about three years, the trailers will be removed, Boeing officials have stated.

Recently the city made arrangements for Boeing to connect the mobile homes to the city's sewer system.

President Tells GIs

Military Call-Ups May Have Release Papers In One Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today told men called into military service they may get out of uniform within less than a year.

Urging them not to grumble in the meantime, he said they provide the strength to spare the United States a choice "between humiliation and a holocaust."

"Somewhat heatedly," Kennedy took note at a news conference of newspaper stories reporting discomforts and possible shortcomings in equipment and training programs for reservists and National Guardsmen summoned to service as a result of the East-West crisis over Berlin.

The President said his administration—contrary to some speculation—never intended to hold men called up for more than a year.

The hope, he said, is to let them out before the end of the 12-month period for which they were originally ordered to service.

Kennedy also observed that Congress approved the callup which the administration initiated last summer.

Kennedy, in a clear attempt to bolster the morale of the reservists and guardsmen whose lives were disturbed by the muster of additional strength, said the soldier on duty in a "cold and windy camp" is rendering the same valuable service as an airplane on 15-minute alert with the Strategic Air Command.

Kennedy said his administration had felt the nation lacked adequate conventional military strength.

He said the armed forces were increased—"to prevent a war, not to fight a war."

"We want to have a choice between humiliation and holocaust," Kennedy said with reference to a middle ground between surrender and the devastation of nuclear war.

Kennedy declared once again that this country wants to negotiate a peaceful settlement of East-West issues "but does not intend to surrender."

He said a key point in any future negotiations with the Soviet Union will be the question of internationalization of the administration of the autobahn land route to Berlin.

The President covered a wide range of questions in the news conference.

In the midst of the half-hour session with 372 newsmen and on-lookers he announced that the space riding chimpanzee had taken off at 10:07 a.m. from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

"He reports that everything is perfect and working well," Kennedy said as his audience roared with laughter.

Invite Would Draw JFK Into Russia

Russian Interview Delighted Him, He Tells Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy held open today the possibility that he might someday visit the Soviet Union if he were invited.

The question of the possible visit came up at Kennedy's news conference after the President said he was delighted at the publication in the Soviet Union of an interview with him. But he noted he has not been invited to visit the Soviet Union.

Kennedy also said that at the moment there are important problems that must be solved before such a visit would be a matter of practical consideration—the problems of Berlin and Southeast Asia.

On the Berlin dispute, Kennedy said that an international control system for the highway between West Berlin and West Germany might be set up under either four power control or through United Nations operations.

In his interview Saturday with Izvestia editor Alexei Adzhubei, Kennedy proposed an international regime for the autobahn. By this he obviously meant control of Berlin's access routes by some authority other than the Communist East German government. The Soviet position is that the East Germans would take over control of the routes, though not West Berlin itself.

Asked today what he had in mind, Kennedy said he was anxious to work out some system that would assure the free movement of goods and people between West Berlin and West Germany and would avoid harassment. One suggestion which has been considered for achieving that result, he said, is the international administration.

Kennedy declined to discuss in detail the state of Western preparations for Berlin negotiations.

From other sources, it was learned that the Western powers are considering making proposals for a Berlin settlement.

Circles Globe Twice; Recalled

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., (AP)—Space chimp Enos, his intended three-orbit trip cut to two because of trouble with capsule system, parachuted safely into the Atlantic 500 miles southeast of Bermuda today.

Two destroyers, the Stomes and the Compton, steamed toward the landing area as several aircraft took up the search for the capsule which was brought down after scientists decided to terminate the flight.

The capsule landed at 1:28 p.m. EST, three hours and 21 minutes after it rode an Atlas rocket into the sky from Cape Canaveral at 10:07 a.m.

The space capsule carrying Enos the chimp was picked up from the Atlantic at 2:53 p. m. EST by a destroyer.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported radio signals from the capsule indicated the chimp was in good condition when he landed.

A P-5M search aircraft sighted the capsule as it parachuted toward the water and seven minutes after the capsule hit, the plane reported that it was floating upright.

An announcement from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at 1:10 p.m. said that "as the spacecraft traveled across the Pacific Ocean near the end of its second orbit, stations detected increased inverter temperature and an attitude control action other than nominal."

The announcement said a signal was sent to reset the satellite clock in the cockpit so that it would fire the reverse rockets which would slow the orbital speed from 17,500 miles an hour so that the capsule would ease gradually across the southern

Col. Cook Ordered To Florida Post

Col. Howard G. Cook, vice wing commander of the 340th Bomb Wing at Whiteman, recently received orders from the Pentagon assigning him to the United States Strike Command, 4500th Support Squadron, McDill AFB, Fla. Cook is due to report to his new assignment as Inspector General for the command Dec. 8.

Col. Cook arrived at Whiteman in the early part of 1960 and was assigned duties as special assistant to Brig. Gen. Robert H. Strauss, 17th Air Division commander. In September of last year he was appointed vice wing commander, and has served in this position until receiving his new assignment this month.

LIVE ARTILLERY SHELL—After determining that the artillery shell found at the Katzing Salvage Co. Tuesday was live, these two ordnance disposal men from Whiteman Air Force Base removed the shell to the base for detonation. T-Sgt. Gerald T. Hunsucker (left) and Moises Chavez, said either heat or a sudden jar would have caused the shell to explode sending shrapnel flying in every direction. Just where the shell, believed to have been made during WWI, came from no one is certain. The two sergeants wrapped the shell in burlap bags and Chavez carried it to their station wagon for transporting to the base. School District Battle Goes On

A majority of voters Tuesday approved state-backed proposals to reorganize two Miller county school districts for the purpose of annexing four small school districts in adjoining Morgan county. The total vote was 1,473 to 210, over 7-1 in support of reorganization.

Reorganized school districts in two counties are now claiming the same four small independent districts, Barnett, McKinley, Joe Taylor and Routon, as a result of the Miller county balloting.

Nov. 16 a proposal to reorganize Versailles R-II School District in Morgan county for the purpose of annexing the four districts carried at the polls by a majority of 82 to 101.

Residents of the four disputed districts were eligible to vote in both elections, but formed a minority in both instances.

Under the reorganization proposal supported by the State Board of Education, Barnett, part of Joe Taylor, McKinley and Routon are joined with the Eldon

R-I District. The remainder of the Joe Taylor district joins the Osage C-I District which operates School of the Osage at Lake Ozark. This new district is labeled Osage R-II.

Only one precinct returned a vote unfavorable to reorganization. At the N. F. Archer station. (Please turn to page 6 column 3)

High Draft Calls Seen; May Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Draft calls likely will stay at a relatively high level—and may go even higher—if the Army is increased by two regular divisions.

Pentagon sources said Tuesday the White House informally has agreed with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's recommendation that the regular Army be swelled from 14 to 16 divisions. Congressional approval would be needed.

Money to man and equip the two new divisions—perhaps as much as $25 million—probably will be included in the budget President Kennedy sends to Congress in January for the bookkeeping year starting next July 1.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said the Senate Armed Services Committee which he heads will make a careful investigation early in January of the defense buildup.

The Army, under the impetus of the Berlin situation, already has strengthened to 16 divisions, but two are National Guard outfits that under present law cannot remain in federal service beyond next October.

Base Phone Number To Change Dec. 15

The present telephone number for Whiteman Air Force Base will be changed from Knob Noster Logan 3-2201, to Knob Noster Logan 3-5511.

According to Major Barney O. Younse, base communications officer, the change-over will become effective at midnight Dec. 15. If any difficulties are encountered in reaching the base between the hours of 6 p.m. and midnight Dec. 15, both numbers should be called, if the base cannot be contacted on either of these numbers, callers are requested to contact the chief telephone operator in Sedalia.

Absentee Ballots In

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said today the five absentee ballots cast in the airport bond election Nov. 21 have been counted and they were all against the issue. The official count is 2,233 against the issue and 533 in favor.

West Considering Proposals To Settle Crisis in Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers are considering making proposals to the Soviet Union early next year for a settlement of the Berlin crisis. They will be designed to strengthen the security of West Berlin against Communist pressures and to assure free access to the city from West Germany.

The proposals may embrace a plan for creation of an internationally controlled highway corridor between West Berlin and West Germany as suggested by President Kennedy in an interview published Tuesday in the Soviet Union.

The prospective Western plan for Berlin, coupled with new exploratory talks with the Soviet government, is expected by authorities here to lead an East-West foreign ministers conference in a few months.

But U.S. officials say the negotiations thus foreseen will be prolonged and extremely difficult and no compromise solution of the Berlin dispute is in sight.

The Kennedy interview with Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia and son-in-law of Premier Khrushchev dramatically illustrated the complete conflict of aims on Berlin issues with which the Soviet Union and the West are approaching negotiations.

The conflict of aims developed in what was really an exchange of views between Adzhubei and Kennedy. Adzhubei is believed here to have chosen this technique so that when the full record of the interview was published in Izvestia its readers were presented with the Soviet as well as the Western viewpoint.

Kennedy said that the desire of the Western powers is to maintain "a very limited number" of U.S., British and French troops in West Berlin and "to have, for example, an international administration on the Autobahn (German superhighway) so that goods and people can move freely in and out."

With those purposes secured, Kennedy said, "we can have peace in this area for years." At another point he said that there has been peace in Europe for 15 years and "the problem now is to see if we can reach a negotiation which can settle this matter for another 15 years."

Adzhubei said that the Soviet aim is to sign a German peace treaty—with West Germany and Communist East Germany as separate governments—and then to guarantee "freedom for West Berlin by every means—by troops of the four powers, by United Nations troops."

As to the problem of access

Adzhubei said it was a simple matter because all that is necessary for the transport of people and goods across East German territory is to "ask permission of the GDR (East German government)."

Kennedy told the Izvestia editor—and through him the Soviet people—that he understood the Soviet Union would give the East German authorities "the power to interfere" with Western traffic to East Berlin. He said the West could not rely upon assurances that the East Germans would not interfere with the traffic flow.

Kennedy made the Berlin problem the central concern of most of his discussion with Adzhubei, although he said the great long range "threat to peace" is the Kremlin's effort to push the Communist system outward, taking over one country after another.

U.S. officials predicted that sometime following a meeting of Western foreign ministers in Paris in mid-December, the Western powers will present to the Soviet Union their proposals for a Berlin settlement. These proposals are expected to be aimed in the first instance at strengthening the Western position in relation to Berlin and the declared long-range purposes of reuniting East and West Germany. In other words, they will be the starting point for bargaining.

Kennedy Interview Story Reaching Important Reds

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
President Kennedy's interview with Izvestia will reach a small but highly important segment of the Soviet population, and it unquestionably will present to them an alluring prospect.

In committing Izvestia to print the text of the interview with Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, the Kremlin probably recognized the risks involved.

The longing for peace and prosperity is strong among the Soviet people. The risk is that the President's words will help generate even more pressure from the Soviet people to satisfy their growing urge for normal conditions.

The reward to be gained from this bold sally into journalistic competition may lie in the prospect of entrenching Khrushchev in his battle against the diehard Stalinists who insist that war is inevitable and that the Soviet Union should embark upon a much tougher course.

Izvestia as the organ of the Soviet government is distinct from more powerful Pravda, which is the official organ of the 9-million strong Soviet Communist party.

Izvestia is read by government officials, factory managers, top-ranking economic personnel, collective farm officials, professional people and others of that stamp throughout the Soviet Union. Its circulation of 4½ million probably means that it is read by 20 million or more people.

The words of President Kennedy likely are being read avidly. Soviet readers are hungry for such reading matter and—as Adzhubei himself said—accustomed to reading long newspaper stories. The 8,000-word interview will not feaze Soviet readers. They will gobble up every word.

Kennedy put his finger on a point that worries Soviet officials. Russians—apart from high-ranking Communist leaders—obviously relate their hopes for increased living standards and prosperity to good relations with the United States.

When those relations are bad, Russian hopes sag. When relations have a prospect of improving, Russian hopes go up.

Official Soviet propaganda has been careful not to slam the door on those hopes. When it speaks of the threat of war, it concentrates much of its fire on Germany, the source of the last scourge. It tries to suggest that President Kennedy is being hoodwinked by West

Armstrong-Jones Pictures Of New Baby Make Big Hit

LONDON (AP) — Former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones today scored his biggest photographic feat—the first pictures of his and Princess Margaret's baby son.

Housewives and young girls cooed sentimentally over breakfast coffee at the pictures of three-week-old Viscount Linley and his mother splashed over the front pages of Britain's newspapers.

The favorite was one in which the photographer father, now the Earl of Snowdon, had caught his royal wife with her eyes half-closed in delight, nestling her grinning baby against her cheek.

The pictures dominated the front pages. But not that of the Communist Daily Worker, which doesn't approve of such publicity for the royal family.

"Superb," exclaimed royal photographer Cecil Beaton, who took the first official photographs of Queen Elizabeth's three children.

"The great charm of these pictures is that he has captured the simplicity of the great love between mother and child," said Cornel Lucas, another widely known fashion and portrait photographer.

"I would not say he has produced great pictures," said editor Simon Clynne of the Daily Mirror, "but as studio-type studies they are good. He has captured that indefinable something—the proud mother look in Princess Margaret's eyes, for instance."

The baby made his public debut the day following the announcement that he will be named David Albert Charles and called David, the name of his mother's favorite uncle the Duke of Windsor.

David is also an honored name in Wales. St. David being the patron saint, and Armstrong-Jones

German generals and "warmongers in the Pentagon."

Now the Russians have it from the President of the United States himself: An American controls NATO and West German forces are integrated in NATO. West Germans have only nine divisions and these under NATO control. They have no nuclear arms and little prospect of getting them. They have practically no navy and only a small air force. They are no military threat to the Soviet Union.

The real threat, the Russians are told, comes from unwarranted pressures in such areas as Berlin, in violation of postwar agreements. That pits one powerful country, the United States, against another, the Soviet Union, with the resultant threat that both systems could be destroyed.

Many a Russian will ponder those words, and these days public opinion in the Soviet Union is coming to mean more and more with regard to the activities of the Kremlin. Today's conservative educated Russian, generations removed from Bolshevik revolution, is unlikely to want to risk all he has and all he hopes for just to push the idea of communism on the rest of the world.

nor spokesmen for the royal family would say whether any of the money would go to Lord Snowdon.

Long Advocates Better Use Of Farm Know-how

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—"We should put our food and farm know-how to better use in the cold war," Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a Jasper County 4-H Achievement Night audience.

Telling of recent travels in Europe and Asia, the senator said America's farm surpluses are one of its greatest sources of strength among the world's uncommitted nations.

"The world knows that American agriculture is a symbol of plenty," he said. "And it also knows communist agriculture is just more of the age-old belt tightening, driving and cruel hunger that most of the world knows all too well."

Long said 16 million American farm people, operating at about two-thirds of capacity, produce as much as Red China's 50 million peasants and 60 per cent more than Russia's 11 million farm people.

The senator said the Kennedy administration's 1961 program for feed grains greatly enhanced farm income in Missouri this year.

"I have been told by farmers from all over the state that without this program that they would have gone under—that it was the first workable farm program in years," he said.

Delicate Situation Faces Nation's Food Processors

By RIP WATSON
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Mounting public interest in fallout shelters and nuclear survival poses a delicate problem for the nation's food processors and packagers.

Should they take advantage of this interest by promotional campaigns extolling the merits of their products as foods for survival in the event of a nuclear war?

Or would this do them more harm than good in an era of uncertainty over whether Americans ever will be forced to live—and eat—underground?

As businessmen, they are interested, of course, in selling more canned, bottled, frozen, packaged and other processed food. But, almost to a man, they say they do not want to be put in the position of being accused of frightening people into filling their cellars with canned goods.

A survey of industry leaders showed these trends:

1. No one has yet come up with a truly new food designed solely for the shelter age except for a small handful of composition-type foods providing all the necessary vitamins, calories, minerals, proteins, etc., in one neat package. Several firms have their research and lab people working on such products, but are reluctant to discuss them for competitive reasons.

2. They feel that the long shelf life and ease of preparation of existing canned meats, poultry, fish, vegetables, fruits, spaghetti, soups, juices and the like make them natural for shelter stocking.

3. Although the reasons why remain unclear, can production has risen this year. A Can Manufacturers Institute spokesman reported output through September was 5 per cent ahead of a year earlier, which compared with a normal increase in production, due to population growth, of 3 1/2 per cent. He also reported a big pickup in demand for canned water.

This trade spokesman and a representative of the National Canners Association reported what they called "an unverified feeling" in industry circles that many consumers are picking up a few more cans here and there and stowing them away for a day when fallout may rain down.

Smelser Extension Holds Meet Thursday

The Smelser Extension Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lee Otten.

Mrs. Lee Otten gave a demonstration on "How to Make an Attractive Table Turkey Centerpiece of styrofoam balls, brown net and felt." She also told how this could be varied to make a snowman, Santa Claus and other centerpieces in keeping with the season. Other gift ideas were exchanged among the members.

It was decided to have the Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Charles Brandhorst in December and instead of exchanging gifts each member was to give the amount of money usually given in a gift and the total would be used to purchase a bond for the Crippled Children's Center.

Thoughts for the day from the club books were read and discussed and the devotional was the worship service from the back of the club book given by Mrs. Charles Brandhorst.

Guests were Lesli Ann Powell, Debbie, Gregg and Becky Otten. There were also six members present.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party with Mrs. Charles Brandhorst.

Miss Dixie Chipman Honored at Shower

Miss Dixie Chipman, Windsor, was honored with a bridal shower Friday evening, given by Miss Malloy Harvey and Mrs. Sue Zimmerman at the Harvey home.

Decorations carried out the bridal colors, red and green. A bridal doll centered the red and white gift table.

Attending and sending gifts were: Jane Cox, Versailles; Martha Needy, Green Ridge; Nova Rosebrough, Warrensburg; Dana Gordon, Mary Perry, Iva Alcorn, Sharon Funk, Barbara Feaster, Janice Walker, Carol Perkins, Mrs. Bob Chipman, Mrs. Marion Craig, Mrs. Sue Ward, Mrs. Karen Lynde, Mrs. Loyd Harvey, Mrs. Loretta Burford, Leeton; Mrs. Thelma Hill, Kansas City; Mrs. Zelda Waterson, Holden; Pat Chaney, Green Ridge and Mrs. Sue Taylor.

The product was the World War II brain child of a Los Angeles restaurant operator, Clifford Clinton, who was trying to get ample food for his paying customers and those seeking handouts. Now General Mills is associated with Meals for Millions, a nonprofit organization in Los Angeles, in producing and retailing MPP.

A similar product is National Biscuit Co.'s survival ration crackers, which were developed at the request of the New York State Civil Defense Commission and offered to large firms, institutions and civil defense agencies with a minimum order of five tons. Recently, however, the firm said it would accept mail orders for a minimum of six 5-pound tins, enough to sustain two adults for two weeks if they have two quarts of water each day.

Alexander N. McFarlane, a senior vice president of sales for Corn Products Co., said his firm sees the market for "survival foods" as more potential than actual.

Wilson & Co. said that, in reply to numerous customer and dealer requests for a shelter package, it is putting one together from established company products and hopes to market it soon.

Also working on a survival kit is Stokely-Van Camp Inc., while a subsidiary, Kumer-Empson of Brighton, Colo., has been turning out canned water.

Hershey Chocolate Corp. is studying the possibility of packaging certain products such as powdered chocolate for mixing with water and chocolate bars in materials that would provide long life on shelter shelves.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: In September I went to visit my sister in Georgia. I had not seen her for almost four years. She is 41 years old and her children are all grown.

When she and her husband met me at the airport I was surprised to see that she looked a whole lot heavier than I had remembered her. When she removed her coat I was really shocked. I said "Wilma—why didn't you tell me you were pregnant?"

She became furious and practically screamed, "I am NOT pregnant. I've been having thyroid trouble and have added some weight, but it's under control now."

I visited there about two weeks and had a pleasant time. Yesterday we got a telegram saying Wilma had a baby boy.

I'm burned up at her for lying to me. Why would a person do this? My husband says it's possible that she thought she had thyroid trouble and wasn't actually lying.

What do you think?—HAVE MY DOUBTS

Dear Have: I have my doubts, too, but what difference does it make either to you or to me?

It's unlikely that Wilma's doctor would be treating her for thyroid trouble all this time. If she wanted to surprise the family, however, say nothing and be happy for her. She's going to have company in her old age.

Dear Ann Landers: Our three-year-old son is developing into a southpaw. He used to eat with his right hand at times, but now he is using his left hand exclusively. He also draws and colors with his left hand.

I'm sorry to see this happen because I know that left-handed people can be at a disadvantage, particularly at dinner parties. My husband told me his mother broke him of left-handedness when he was a youngster by putting his left arm in a sling for two weeks. He said he's glad she did it even though he still stutters a little.

My husband wants me to put our son's left arm in a sling but I don't think it is wise. What do you say?—AGIN IT.

Dear Agin It: Leave the boy alone. He may grow up to be another Whitey Ford. (And if his toughest problem in life is encountered at dinner parties he'll be lucky, indeed.)

Dear Ann Landers: I work for the telephone company and this has been a particularly trying day. Perhaps if I transfer my anger to paper I may feel better. And perhaps if a few million readers see this a dozen may mend their ways, temporarily at least.

There must be something about the telephone that brings out the worst in people. Well brought-up, educated citizens revert to animal-types when they talk to an operator who cannot see them. Business executives who place long distance calls have slammed the receiver in my ear. I've been called "Dummy," "Idiot" and names no newspaper would print.

The women are as bad as the men. They are impatient, demanding and ill-tempered. Why don't people understand that we are not machines—only humans who are trying to give good service.

If every person who uses the telephone will try to be civil to the operator—just for today—it will help make our lives a whole lot easier. — OPERATOR.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, (c) 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc. self-addressed envelope.

Scholarships To Be Provided By Optimists

The outcome of Youth Appreciation Week, sponsored by the two Optimist Clubs of Sedalia during which they announced that there would be a scholarship given to some deserving young person in one of the high schools, Smith-Cotton, Sacred Heart and Hubbard, resulted in the request that scholarships be given to a worthy student in each of the high schools. Joe Forsee stated at the meeting of the Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

Forsee went on to say that the Optimists agreed this would be a good program for their organizations and will give the three scholarships, two will be given by the noon club, of which he is president, and the other by the Breakfast Optimist Club.

A very lively and instructive program on the Optimist Christmas tree project was given by Ralph Huff. Plans for the selling of Christmas trees started in July, Huff stated. He went on to say that the trees this year will be much better than last year because they have been secured from Canada where the winters are longer and thus they are thicker and the needles are stronger and do not fall off as quickly. Because of the firm the trees are being purchased from being one of the largest they will be able to select the type of tree at different prices.

The trees are expected to be here by Monday, Dec. 4, and the Optimists are selling, in addition, tree light strings and tree stands. Starting Dec. 14, they will give toys to the children who visit the lot accompanied by an adult. The toys will be in a big box and the children may select their own toy from the box.

The meeting was presided over by Joe Forsee, who also gave the invocation. Miss Lillian Fox, at the piano, played Christmas and other music.

Enos Quiet, Poker-faced Chimp Who Worries Little

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Enos, the chimp selected to be the first two-legged American to orbit the earth, is a quiet, poker-faced young immigrant. As chimpanzees go, he is rather plain but highly stable—an unsmiling introvert but not a worrier.

He is the last chimp you'd expect to find on a psychiatrist's couch. Not as colorful as some astro-chimps, he is more inclined to be the quiet, taciturn, pillar-of-the-community type.

He came to this country 18 months ago and trained thoroughly for the space age. He was born and raised in the French Cameroons in Africa, which makes him a kind of a Peace Corps in reverse.

He is 5½ years old, which in chimp chronology makes him an adolescent. He weighs 37½ pounds and stands, when he stands, 38 inches high, which makes him medium-sized for his age group.

"He really is a plain type of fellow, not at all the kind you'd pick out in a crowd," said Capt. Jerry Fineg, Air Force veterinarian.

Enos did not come by his honors lightly. He was chosen on the basis of elimination trials during which, said Fineg, "we tried not to let ourselves get too attached to any one chimp so as not to lose our objectivity."

The available chimps first were narrowed down to four males and a girl named Glenda. Then, on the basis of tests for physical condition and responsiveness to blinking lights, geometric symbols and other stimuli, the squad was further cut to three boys—Ham, who already had made a sub-orbital flight, Rocky and Enos.

Then Ham was eliminated for reasons not specified but without prejudice.

With Ham scratched, that left just two. Enos got the starring role and Rocky was named understudy. Rocky is 4, weighs 31 pounds and stands 34 inches tall.

Enos, said Fineg, is quieter, more meditative, less bouncy than Rocky. Rocky, being younger, is more colorful, more appealing, more affectionate.

"Rocky is a cuddler and grins a lot," Fineg said. "Enos grins very little, although that is not to say he gets frustrated very easily. Tests showed he has great persistence."

Nobody here seems to know why Enos was named Enos. Rocky was christened for more obvious reasons: he likes to box and he has cauliflower ears.

Cold War Is Comedy For Billy Wilder

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Billy Wilder has accomplished what everyone thought impossible. He has made a comedy about the cold war.

Many have tried. But it took the screen's No. 1 wit to pull it off. Wilder's "One, Two, Three" is a worthy successor to his previous satires, "Some Like It Hot" and "The Apartment."

Wilder (with his gifted collaborator, I. A. L. Diamond), chose an impossible task. He placed his comedy in the world's grimmest city, Berlin. He set the pace to be that of a fox hunt—full cry from the very beginning.

The music over the titles is "The Sabre Dance," and that frantic tempo is kept throughout the film. James Cagney begins his first scene at a shout and rarely lowers his voice for the next 110 minutes.

Not even a comedy genius like Wilder can maintain such speed throughout, and there are times when the ear yearns for a dulcet voice and gentle violins. Then Wilder hits you in the face with another outrageous situation.

The plot is from a Ferenc Molnar one-act and is just enough to provide the impetus for the frantic goings-on. The scatter-brained heiress (Pamela Tiffin) of an American soft-drink maker falls in love with an East Berlin beatnik (Horst Buchholz). The Berlin manager of the firm (Cagney) tries to break up the romance, but is thwarted when he learns she is married and pregnant.

The amazing thing about "One, Two, Three" is that it can get so much fun out of such a grim subject. Some of the gags are standard but many are inspired, and they come so swiftly that some appear to hit the mark.

No actor can handle this kind of romp as deftly as Cagney, and he is in peak form. Buchholz shows an un-Germanic touch for light comedy, and Miss Tiffin is perfect as the ingenious Southern belle. Arlene Francis drops off TV panels to show she can still act. Lilo Pulver is a smash as Cagney's ring-a-ding-ding secretary.

Secret Report Asks Creation Of Commander

NEW YORK (AP)—Creation of a supreme commander for U.S. commands all over the world is recommended in a secret report recently submitted to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the New York Times said today.

The story by Hanson W. Baldwin, the newspaper's military editor, said the recommendation is viewed by some Pentagon experts as a long step toward establishment of the controversial General Staff with a single chief to replace the existing chiefs of staff.

The proposal is the salient recommendation in a report by a committee formed in September by McNamara to advise him about tightening and improving command and control channels in the missile and nuclear age.

The Business World

Signs of Record Buying; Merchants Still Unhappy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — All the early signs point to record Christmas business in most sections of the nation.

So you'd expect most merchants to be happy. But many of them aren't.

In some cases this is because the gains in retail sales over a year ago aren't as fat as they had hoped—and perhaps planned for in their ordering.

Others bemoan the fierce competition and price cutting that has pinched profit margins.

Still others contend that the consumers, while spending more this year than last, haven't loosened their purse strings as much as the record national figures on personal income would seem to justify.

And, of course, some merchant complaining is just a characteristic. Retailers as often as not are downhearted—if the weather has not been bad, the consumer has been lured by some current status symbol to spend his money for things that their stores don't carry.

But the early reports show the shoppers out in force—and many well ahead of the traditional day-after-Thanksgiving start of the Christmas buying season.

Most stores have their biggest selling season now. Since sales in the final weeks of the year are so high a percentage of the year's total, a good or bad yule season can make or break a store's final profit and loss accounting for the year as a whole.

The Commerce Department reported personal income in October rose to a record annual rate of $425 billion. Helping in the $4-billion gain over September were longer work weeks, higher hourly wage scales for many, increasing dividend payments, a gain in total employment.

These latter pocketbooks are what the merchants are counting on tapping between now and Christmas.

Some of the increased buying right now may be due to other things than the Christmas spirit. The delayed onslaught of cold weather in many areas is sending shoppers to the stores belatedly for such things as overcoats, winter suits, blankets.

And consumer confidence appears to be on the mend.

So the prediction of a 5 percent gain in Christmas retail sales may well come true. Whether that's as big a gain as the population increase and higher incomes would justify, and whether it's enough to offset the profit squeeze in many lines is a matter of points of view: the view of the merchant, the consumer, or the government.

Tonometer In Use By Dr. Lively

In the interest of the early detection of glaucoma, Dr. Floyd L. Lively announced that he has purchased a McKay Marg Electronic Tonometer.

Glaucoma is a disease of the eye characterized by increased intraocular pressure, which results in hardness of the eye and gradual loss of vision. One may say the possibility of glaucoma should be considered in every person over 40. Also, a higher percentage of glaucoma is found in females than males. Through extensive research by different universities, it is found that the left eye is more prone to attacks than the right eye, due to the anatomical structure of the eye. Heredity also plays a part in glaucoma detection.

The Fick-Imbert principle, on which the tonometers used today are based, was invented almost a century ago. The new electronic tonometer works on a new principle which has a validity of 95 per cent. It is accurate in that an absolute value is determined. The McKay Marg electronic tonometer makes its own recording, on paper, of the exact pressure reading, without the use of weights or allowance charts. These tonograms can be filed to keep an accurate record of the patient's pressure and can be referred to from time to time. Such a tonogram has obvious advantages — readings taken on the same patient at different times, may be easily and rapidly compared.

Viewers Hold Final Words On TV Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's critics fill the air with cries for better quality. Top network executives talk grandly about their news coverage and documentaries. But fundamentally, the success and failure of television lies in its regular entertainment shows, the weekly programs—action, variety, situation comedy, dramatic anthologies—which are the meat-and-potatoes fare of the medium.

Whether the critics like a show or not, whether it is violent or cliché-filled, the final decision whether a bread-and-butter show lives or dies is made by the mass audience, as reported by the various ratings services.

One may quarrel with ratings, deplore the system which permits a mere sampling of viewers to determine whether a program perishes or survives, but it is the only way each bill-paying sponsor has found to let him know how many people are being exposed to his message. So believe them or not, the ratings will continue to have life-and-death influence on the medium.

But popularity is not always related closely to quality, freshness or even entertainment value. Sometimes it is a simple matter of position in a network schedule. For instance, when ABC's "The New Breed," a routine police-action show, started this fall in a 9-10 p.m. spot in the network lineup, it was doing poorly. This was easily explained: it had two powerful rivals: CBS' "Red Skelton and NBC's slick, professional "Dick Powell Show." In addition, its "lead-in" (the preceding show on the network) was an extremely weak entry: "Calvin and the Colonel."

A few weeks back, ABC removed the 30-minute cartoon show and shoved up "The New Breed" a half hour. This week, it reported triumphantly that the shift had resulted in almost doubling the audience. The shows were the same, the stars the same—nothing had changed except the time—and the competition.

Farmer Assumes Nonchalant Air Toward 'Ingot'

JESUP, Ga. (AP)—A farmer is taking a nonchalant attitude about that yellow metal ingot he dug up—he has plans whether it turns out to be gold worth perhaps $12,000 or mere brass worth relatively nothing.

"If that chunk of metal I found turns out to be real gold," said Guy Woods, 30, "I'll probably tear the house down and start digging where it is for more gold."

And if it isn't gold?

"We'll use it for a boat anchor and keep on a-livin' just like we been doin'."

An official of a Baltimore metal works said Tuesday a description of the metal bar sounds like the brass ingots turned out by his plant.

Slurred Speech, Isotopes And Deep Shaves In News

By The Associated Press

Slurred speech, radioisotopes in medicine, overweight children and new views on shaving figure in the medical news:

Mumbo-Jumbo

You may be no spellbinder when you sound off your views, but are you even being understood?

The American Medical Association says millions of people are more or less handicapped in their everyday affairs because of slurred speech, mumbling or of swallowing word endings. These people leave the impression they are careless or lack self-confidence.

The AMA gives this tip for testing your enunciation: Ask a few relatives or trusted friends if they understand your speech at all times. Or ask yourself: "How often does someone ask me to repeat a word, phrase or sentence?"

Versatile Atom

The atom is fast approaching early maturity in the field of diagnostic medicine.

Hundreds of medical institutions are using radioisotopes in medicine and the demand is growing.

Nuclear Chicago Corp., a producer of atomic products and equipment, has started issuing informative bulletins that can be used in training programs for medical students and doctors.

The first bulletin deals with the evaluation of thyroid function. Others are planned detailing how radioisotopes can be used in kidney function studies, diagnosis of pernicious anemia and blood volume determinations.

Slim Example

One of the best ways parents can induce an overweight child to lose weight is to set a proper example, a medical study in London indicates.

The study project, reported in World-Wide Abstracts of General Medicine, dealt with 100 overweight children between the ages of 7 and 14. Of the group, 74 had either one or both parents overweight.

Shaving

When the average man takes his daily shave, he removes almost as much skin as hair, a dermatologist contends.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. . . .

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Dr. Herbert Mescon, professor and chairman of the department of dermatology, Boston School of Medicine, said this is true whether he uses a blade razor or electric razor.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Wed., Nov. 29, 1961
Mescon said, "But this doesn't mean that shaving is harmful. It may stimulate the growth of new skin and in this way can be beneficial. To date, there's no proof that any one method (blade or electric razor) is best for all skins."

Cuts Non-farm Jobs

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A seasonal decline dropped Missouri's non-farm jobs to 1,336,600 in October, the Division of Employment Security reported today. That was 1,400 fewer than the previous month and 23,600 fewer than in October a year ago, agency director LeRoy Schantz noted.

Average weekly earnings in manufacturing rose from $90.46 to $92.41.

Early Optimists Hear Yule Talk By Rev. Reifel

"What Christmas Really Means to Me" was the subject on which the Rev. Leonard Reifel, pastor of the Federated Church, spoke to the members of the Breakfast Optimist Club Wednesday morning at the Pacific Cafe.

Now is the season of Advent, the fourth Sunday before Christmas, the coming of Christ. This season of the year involves mystery, he said, and the most beautiful thing in life is mystery. It is a season of joy and Rev. Reifel pointed out that Christ enjoyed life, he liked to attend feasts and gatherings, he loved to watch children to play games with them to take them in his arms and bless them. There was a joyousness about him, and some people fail to see that Christianity is a religion of joy. There are too many long faces in the churches, he said.

The reading of the prophets designate this as a season of preparation with penitence and humility. God was made flesh and dwelt among us, Rev. Reifel said. He spoke with authority and he said, "He that has seen me has not seen me but God. And so, the speaker explained, it was God who became flesh and came among men as the child born for whom Christmas has become a joyous observance.

The speaker was introduced by Richard Battles, program chairman.

The meeting was presided over by Gerald Cecil in the absence of Cliff Barr, president. Invocation was given by Rev. Reifel and Gerald Cecil led the singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

A report was given and a discussion held on the sale of blankets by the club.

House Veteran Seeks Another Term In Office

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Rep. Clarence Cannon of Elsberry, a member of Congress since 1923 and chairman of the House Appropriations committee for many years, filed today for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket.

The 82-year-old veteran of Congress is running in the new 9th District which is composed of 26 counties in northeastern Missouri. Three years ago Cannon said that since he has been chairman of the Appropriations Committee the government has spent more money than it did from the time of George Washington to the start of World War II.

In recent years he has reported piddling little campaign expenses, generally reflecting the purchase of a few stamps.

He has written several books on parliamentary procedure and has been House parliamentarian for years.

Central States Plan Push For Added Industry

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Representatives of nine mid-American states met in St. Louis Tuesday to consider establishment of a joint development organization for a co-ordinated push toward industrial expansion in the region.

It was announced at the session that another meeting, to be attended by governors of the nine states, would be held shortly after the first of next year.

Lester E. Cox, chairman of the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, told the conference the nine states can increase their economy 15 to 20 per cent annually with a co-operative effort.

Present at the meeting were representatives from Illinois, Arkansas, Kansas, Kentucky, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Missouri.

Voters Approve 2 Bond Issues; Reject a Third

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP)—St. Charles residents approved two sewer bond issue proposals and rejected a third Tuesday.

Bond issues totaling $2,750,000 passed, while a $90,000 proposal was defeated.

Approved 1,603 to 259 was a $1.5-million bond issue for an extension of the sewer system and construction of a sewage treatment plant. A $1,250,000 proposal to finance construction of a plant to distribute deep well water through the city's water system was approved 1,445-412.

Maryville Voters Reject Bond Issues

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Two bond proposals totaling $1,204,000 were turned down Tuesday in a special election.

The vote on an $881,000 street improvement proposal was 738 votes against and 661 in favor while a $323,000 sewer bond proposal got 737 votes in favor and 654 against. Both required a two-thirds majority.

Chimp

United States to the landing. The clock fired the rockets at 1:08 p.m.

A fleet of recovery ships is in the area south of Bermuda. The ships had been stationed there for just such an event.

When the decision was made to bring the capsule down, the chimp reportedly still was in excellent condition and performing his tasks, receiving banana pellets and sips of water as his reward. There was no further explanation from NASA on just how the inverter and controls were affected.

An inverter is a device used to switch electrical current from AC to DC to run certain spacecraft systems. This apparently was overheated.

The attitude control system relies on electronic detectors to determine whether the spacecraft is on the proper course.

If it is not, signals are sent to hydrogen peroxide-driven jets on the side of the capsule. The jet action returns it to the proper course.

Officials announced that the Cape Canaveral tracking facility made contact with the descending capsule at 1:16 p.m. and all indications were that Enos was in good condition.

Just what effect the suddenly terminated flight might have on U.S. plans to send up a man for a space orbit before the end of the year was uncertain.

NASA had planned to go all out on such a program if today's flight was wholly successful and was scheduled to name the man to make the trip at a news conference later today.

The Indian Ocean tracking ship reported that while Enos was in their area he performed his lever pulling tasks well enough to get a reward of 10 banana-flavored pellets.

The tracking station at Guaymas, Mexico, made contact with the orbiting capsule at 11:34 a.m. and two minutes later contact was received at Point Arguello, Calif.

One minute later, at 11:37 a.m. the tracking station at Corpus Christi, Tex., began receiving signals from the capsule.

The capsule completed its first actual orbit at 11:44 a.m. when contact was received at the Bermuda station for a second time.

Kaysinger Generators Are Favored

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri's senators say prospects are favorable for inclusion of power generation facilities in the proposed Kaysinger Bluff Dam on the Osage River above Warsaw.

Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long said in a news release from their offices here today that preliminary information indicates the storage of an additional million acre-feet of water in a power pool in Kaysinger Reservoir would be justified.

This would be in addition to the expected 122,000 acre-feet in the conservation reserve pool originally planned. The senators said the preliminary information is being studied by various governmental agencies.

Inclusion of a power pool would mean raising the top of the conservation pool almost 35 feet above the 673-foot elevation above sea level which was authorized for the pool in 1954. In dry years, they said, operation for power would lower the power pool by as much as 15 feet.

Increasing the size of the pool, the senators said, would mean a much greater asset for western Missouri through both the hydroelectric power and the recreation potential of the reservoir.

Findings are to be given to the Army Engineers board of review within the next few weeks. If that board approves and the state of Missouri concurs, the senators said, a request will be made in Congress to change original authorizations for the dam to include the increase in storage and power generation facilities.

Opponent Cites Kemper Record As a Democrat

CAMDENTON, Mo. (AP)—David D. James, who is seeking the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, says his only avowed opponent for the nomination, R. Crosby Kemper, "will have to prove to me he is something other than a Democrat."

James, 34-year-old Springfield city councilman, spoke at a party meeting in Camdenton Tuesday night and hit at what he referred to as Kemper's long association with the Democratic party.

He said Kemper had served as campaign treasurer for Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington in 1958 and in January of this year was named an honorary colonel on the staff of Gov. John M. Dalton, a Democrat.

GOP Leaders In Thought; Not Talking

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Party leaders attending the 14-state midwestern Republican regional conference are doing a lot of thinking, but very little talking, about the 1964 presidential election.

Speeches center on the 1962 congressional elections and on Republican views of how things are going in Washington. The view — not good.

Asked about 1964, party spokesmen were not voluble.

Would the announced divorce plans of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York hurt his chances for the nomination? Delegates generally agreed he was hurt politically — at least for a time.

The state leaders were generous with their applause for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose speech opened the conference. Applause interrupted him when Goldwater said, "I am a conservative and proud of it."

There was likewise little talk about former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has announced himself as a candidate for governor of California.

At School of the Osage the proposal to reorganize Osage C-I District and add part of the Joe Taylor district carried by 171-21. This was the only precinct voting on Osage reorganization, which technically represented a separate election.

The Miller County Board of Education, headed by Carl Wentzel, president, met Wednesday morning to canvass the election and set a date for elections to name school boards for the newly reorganized districts.

A legal showdown is anticipated soon over whether the Morgan or Miller county school district will control the four contested districts. Both counties have staged all-out campaigns to gain the assessed valuation and pupils of the four districts.

Only the Barnett and Joe Taylor districts are currently operating schools, but the other two districts remain legal entities and provide tuition for students attending classes elsewhere.

Morgan county school officials expressed the opinion that regardless of the Miller county election's outcome the four districts are a part of the Morgan county school system as a result of the Nov. 16 vote.

Coroner's Jury Says Ozark Man Died Resisting Arrest

FORSYTH, Mo. (AP) — A coroner's jury heard 4½ hours of testimony and took 3 minutes to decide that Bill Jenkins was slain by a 27 man force of officers in his barricaded Ozark cottage a week ago today.

Jenkins wounded two officers the night before when they sought to arrest him for abducting the manager of a rural electric co-operative and forcing him to chop down a tree on the right of way of a new power line. Jenkins was angry because electric service hadn't come to his mountain farm fast enough to suit him.

The 11 witnesses at Tuesday's inquest included Norwood Speight of Branson, the co-op manager; Sheriff Roy Wade of Taney County hit by almost 7 shotgun pellets in the first attempt to rout Jenkins, and Lt. Herbert Wickham of the Missouri Highway Patrol, wounded in the thumb in the first siege.

Roy Ellis, an attorney at Cassville, cross-examined some of the witnesses on behalf of the Jenkins family.

He brought out that the body was removed before it was examined by Coroner Walter Cobb and no one had the authority to do this.

He also asked several of the officers if they took Jenkins' mental condition into consideration before they undertook to dislodge him with a 15 minute burst of gunfire. Theron Gideon, Forsyth city marshal who took part in both sieges, testified in his judgment it was a justifiable killing.

Curfew Keeps City Quiet; Talks Go On

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A dusk-to-dawn curfew quieted this strikebound Caribbean capital Tuesday night as President Joaquin Balaguer negotiated with opposition groups demanding that he step down in favor of a provisional junta.

Informed sources said Balaguer had handed the three opposition groups a new proposal offering to hold elections within six weeks instead of next May provided he was allowed to continue in office as head of an interim coalition government.

The chief opposition group, the National Civic Union, on Sunday demanded that Balaguer give way to a provisional junta government headed by Viriato A. Fiallo, leader of the Civic Union.

Santo Domingo's streets were empty after dusk of all but authorized persons and heavily armed units of the army, navy and air force enforcing a curfew ordered after thousands backed the opposition stand with strikes that shut down almost every business and virtually paralyzed the island nation.

Balaguer warned public service workers that they would be fired unless they returned to their jobs today.

Replenish the Reservoir

Nobody is going to stop the clocks merely by turning up fresh estimates that this country needs a lot more engineers and scientists in the years ahead.

What is interesting about the new National Science Foundation report calling for nearly a million more such specialists by 1970, is that it makes its point without wearily dragging in comparisons with the Soviet Union.

Certainly we have to face up to our competition. But if we have any sense of independent destiny, then we should not wish to multiply these specialists just to match or outdo the Russians.

In the unfolding decade we will have great needs in this field even if the cold war is called off tomorrow. We are pushing the 200-million population mark. We are caught in a continuing scientific revolution that constantly reshapes our life. We are probing space and countless other mysteries.

What can be the surprise, then, in learning that we require about 16,000 scientists and engineers a year through 1970, to meet the propulsive demands of our national growth and replace those experts who will die or retire?

The big test is whether we can develop the individual interest, and the educational system, to produce the number of trained people we need.

Right now we aren't making it, as everybody knows. Our vast volume of engineering work gets done because, according to the Foundation report, some 23 per cent of the needed engineering force is recruited from other fields. You can't easily make scientists out of non-scientists, however, so pure research suffers more from our well-advertised shortages.

Even if we keep drawing in comparable percentages of untrained engineers, we will be far short of indicated 1960-70 demand.

Official projections suggest that we will need 14,000 more engineering graduates each year than are now anticipated—and the estimates assume substantial increases in numbers.

In the science field the problem is different. The forecasts say our colleges will turn out almost exactly the needed 83,000 persons a year with science degrees. The sad thing is the real demand is only for 25,000, but the larger total has to be sought because so many thousands drift into teaching, or nonscientific fields.

Thus in both science and engineering the thread of individual interest is all too weak. Too many science graduates shun their specialty. Not enough young Americans tackle the exacting pursuits of the trained engineer.

We like to think of ourselves as a nation with a great reservoir of human skills. But if you scan the rolls of the skilled, from bricklayer to mathematician, you find we aren't doing nearly enough to prove it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Cross Examination of General Walker

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — When you read the cross-examination of Gen. Edwin "Ted" Walker, would-be "man on horseback" of the right-wing extremists, you can easily understand why his chief champion, Sen. Strom Thurmond didn't want him to testify and why the Senate investigation, scheduled for this week, has been postponed.

You can also understand why both President Kennedy and ex-President Eisenhower went out of their way last week to expose the Right-Wing Sixth columnists who have made Gen. Walker and other military politicians their heroes.

Gen. Walker, when cross-examined by Lt. Gen. Frederic J. Brown, for the Army Inspector General, was so evasive that on one occasion he demanded that questions be repeated to him as many as five times.

Walker even attempted to sidestep responsibility for the purchase of John Birch Society literature which he had made available to his troops, until General Brown reminded him: "I have the vouchers that prove they were paid for and distributed."

Walker did confess, after being confronted with the evidence, that he had joined the John Birch Society in Little Rock, Ark., back in May, 1959. This was after he had commanded U.S. paratroopers who enforced integration at the Little Rock Central High School. He was reluctant to talk about the Birch Society, but finally admitted:

"I had a program going in Little Rock before I ever went to the John Birch Society."

True to the Birch code, he refused to identify any other members.

"Excluding me," he said, "I know of no members of the Birch Society."

Undermining The Pentagon

Among the John Birch literature Gen. Walker circulated throughout his command were copies of a book called "The Pentagon Case," which viciously attacks military leadership. One Lieutenant, after reading the book, told the Inspector General: "We would be in a hell of a way if the Pentagon really operates that way."

Referring to this book, General Brown asked Walker:

"The Pentagon Case" is not factual, it's fictional. Second, it does one of the most destructive things to the morale and challenges by insinuation the top leadership of the Army. Now, I have had as much experience leading soldiers as you have, and you don't teach them loyalty by questioning. Now do you think this contributes to the information and education of a soldier? Do you?"

Walker had nothing to say.

Next, Brown took up the book, "Life of John Birch."

"Do you consider," he demanded, "That from page 45 on this is factual. I have spot-checked, and I read nothing but a series of allegations against people, of government officials, General (George) Marshall, casting aspersions on his character and his motivation. I don't consider it factual. I think it is inflammatory. Now do you consider that this is the proper type of material to indoctrinate troops with, to question the top leadership of their government?"

Again, no answer from Walker.

When he described his anti-communist program as "Psychological Warfare," Brown reminded him dryly that psychological warfare "Is for use against the enemy, not your own troops."

Walker also tried to blame the program upon his staff.

Snapped back Brown: "Troop information, by the regulations, is the voice of the commander."

At one point, Walker exploded with wrath over an overseas weekly editorial which criticized him for indoctrinating troops from the book, "Life of John Birch."

"The insidious and fallacious implications through association reflect immoral, unscrupulous, corrupt and destructive intent," raged Walker, spewing out a typical mouthful of big words. " . . . You have probably noted that the alleged statements from the 'Life of John Birch' appearing in the editorial are not in that book. That concludes my comment with regard to the editorial, Sir."

Brown quietly offered to read portions from the book to prove the editorial had quoted them correctly.

"I am not interested, General Brown," snorted Walker.

Brown suggested again that he consult the text.

"I have no need for further information," snapped Walker.

Birch House Guests

Gen. Walker not only brought in John Birch leaders to lecture to his troops, but entertained them as his house guests. They attacked everything from the protestant clergy to the Supreme Court in language that can only be described as "Crackpot." They flailed some of America's most respected leaders as "Communists" and "Traitors."

Walker gave speeches of his own denouncing President Kennedy, Vice President Johnson, former President Truman, USIA Director Edward R. Murrow, Eleanor Roosevelt, and other distinguished Americans. The General implied that most of them were Communist dupes or sympathizers.

Walker set up a group information program which he described as "Anti-Communist." Instead, it taught that American forces should be withdrawn from Europe — which is what Moscow wants; that Foreign Aid is bad — which Moscow wants proclaimed; that Chief Justice Earl Warren should be impeached; that the Peace Corps is no good; and that the Pentagon high command is stupid and disloyal.

With Walker's approval, his soldiers presented a six-hour skit criticizing former President Eisenhower for undertaking negotiations with the Russians. Those in the skit kept referring to Summit as "Submit" conferences.

As a measure of Walker's distrust of his fellow Americans, he charged that 40 to 60 per cent of the American public is "Communist-influenced." He also charged that 60 per cent of the press and radio-TV industry is "Communist-influenced."

Slingshots Next?

A man from another planet might see more quickly than we the wicked irony which has the Soviet Union polluting the air with its massive nuclear test weapons, while East-West "combatants" in Berlin throw relatively harmless tear gas grenades.

To be sure, the Communists have employed powerful water cannon at times, but these seem to be used less and less. Perhaps water pistols might be more in order.

As the great weapons become more menacing, the small arms whose use might touch off the big ones appear to be getting weaker and weaker.

Interview Accomplished a Few Things

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's interview with a Russian newsman—published in full in Russian—didn't contain much that was new but it accomplished a few things.

They could be listed this way: 1. He washed out for the West Germans any illusion they might have — or their politicians were keeping alive—that they might be reunited with Communist-held East Germany or that this country would put up a battle for reunification.

He said "we recognize that today the Soviet Union does not intend to permit reunification and that as long as the Soviet Union has that policy, Germany will not be reunified."

2. Kennedy assured the Russians—and this may have been a vital point to West Germany — that this country not only would not give the West Germans nuclear weapons but expressed reluctance to see them make their own.

3. Since the interview was to be published in full in Moscow, it gave him a chance to get his views in detail across to the Russian people whose knowledge of the American position is probably very fragmentary.

4. By showing no belligerence at all he left the door open to reasonable dealings with the Soviets while, because of the contrast it would provide, making it a little more awkward for Premier Khrushchev to sound extreme.

Khrushchev himself in recent months has been very mild compared with his statements on Berlin last summer.

5. Kennedy got in some propaganda against Communist expansion and its suppression of freedoms—specifically its not permitting free elections in the satellite countries — in the Soviet government's own newspaper, Izvestia.

But he did not have the propaganda field to himself. Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, the editor of Izvestia who interviewed him, got in some licks against the support this country has given tyrants and reactionary regimes.

Since this wasn't an American-type news conference limited to questions and answers, Adzhubei was able to express Russian viewpoints, knowing they would be published in his newspaper side by side with Kennedy's.

Both Kennedy and Adzhubei had their thinking well-organized before they sat down together. So there was no stumbling. Their replies to each other were so quick and to the point it was as if each had seen what the other would say beforehand.

But there was nothing sensational in the give-and-take any more than there was in the three interviews Khrushchev gave this year to American newsmen in Russia.

Both Kennedy and Khrushchev used the interviews for getting across their viewpoint. But, since their viewpoints already were well known to each other, neither could be surprised by what the other said.

What could be considered new in Kennedy's interview were these two points:

1. The West will consider — in dealing with Russia about keeping West Berlin open to the West — an "international administration" on the highway linking West Berlin with West Germany.

The idea behind this is to set up machinery which would be in effect a Russian guarantee that people and goods could travel freely between the city and West Germany.

2. The West might consider an agreement between the Western Allies in NATO and Russia and its satellites in the Warsaw military alliance "to live in peace with each other."

Such an agreement, if made, wouldn't be any more than the expression of a pious sentiment since the agreement would go out the window any time either said it wanted to attack the other.

All in all, while the 8,000-word interview didn't add much new, it may have done a little toward moving nearer reasonable relations on West Berlin, a subject Russia and the West have now been talking about for months.

It might not seem unreasonable if people everywhere now began to ask when the statesmen on both sides would get tired of talking at each other across oceans and frontiers and start sitting down to talk to each other.

Let Miscreants Work Off Debt for Wrong Doing

By RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Slapping paint around, a group of teenagers in Houston, Tex., did $2,000 damage to a high school in a few minutes. When caught, their only explanation was: "It was just something to do."

Parents of all but two of the boys agreed to pay their sons' share of the damage. But two of the boys, whose parents said they were unable to pay, are being given a chance to work at $34-a-month maintenance jobs until they have paid their share.

That means that two of the boys are going to learn a valuable lesson from their spree of vandalism.

The two who have to work off the price of repairing the damage they did will learn that they, and they alone, are responsible for their own acts.

They will also learn just how costly thoughtless vandalism is—how many hours of hard work it takes to earn enough money to pay for being destructive, "just to have something to do."

It's a safe bet those two boys won't take part in any more thoughtless acts of vandalism.

But what have the boys whose parents paid up for them learned? Only that when they get into trouble, they can count on their parents to bail them out.

If we really want to put a stop to teen-age vandalism we ought not to let parents pay up. We ought to make it mandatory that the teen-ager, himself, works off the debt.

That would be the one sure way to take the thrill out of paint-slinging, window-breaking, and all such other forms of "fun."

Any boy who is old enough to be running around at night getting into trouble is old enough to pay the cost by his own hard work.

IT'S CHRISTMAS EVE

Oleander is a buff and black cat who goes on a Christmas Eve rampage when he discovers no one has hung a Christmas stocking for him. He eats the family's fish; he eats the family's bird. He even drinks the milk they've left for Santa. To find out how the happy magic of Christmas comes to Oleander, watch for this fanciful Yuletide tale.

Acts of Kindness Stir False Hope of Recipients

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A lady novelist once visited a boys' reformatory where I worked. Learning that the boy assigned to show her around had no relatives who acknowledged him, she felt so sympathetic that she asked permission to entertain him in her own home on weekends and holidays. With some anxiety the request was granted.

For a while the visits went well. Then one weekend she had to tell her guest that he could not accompany her own children to a party because he had not been invited. He seemed to take this news in his stride but did not return to the reformatory.

It took three months to locate the truant and much, much longer than that to help him overcome the bitter resentment he felt toward the woman into whose kindness he had read a promise of solution to his homeless, unloved state.

I report this story for a Mrs. C who writes, "A young girl friend of my daughter has a very unhappy home. She has gotten into the habit of running to me after scenes with her parents who have now forbidden her to see me. I'm the only adult she trusts and am afraid to refuse to let her come to me even against her parents' wishes. . . ."

Are you prepared for resentment in this troubled girl when she discovers that you cannot solve her problems for her?

"Kind" people are often unaware of the expectations their kindness arouses in those who are suffering from great emotional stress.

We can so enjoy our own charity that we can't see how the weakened depend on it glorifies our intentions toward him. Then the inevitable happens.

The distressed person discovers that our kindness is not enough. We are unable to give him the magic solution he expects of us. He glimpses the terrifying truth that he is responsible for his own life and can be flung into a despairing hate of us that is too big for him to handle.

This is common human experience. A loved person dies — and we hate God. That we ourselves have pledged God to a promise to spare us the experience of helplessness never occurs to us—any more than it occurred to the boy of this column that he had invested a kind stranger with the power to justify the pain and humiliations of his past.

Whether you should continue to see this girl against her parents' wishes, I can't tell you. I can only warn you against a kindness that implies you are the answer to her distress.

By mistaken kindness we can actually sidetrack events that would force this family conflict into the open and get this child the professional help she needs to start facing herself instead of running to you.

The Doctor's Mailbag

You Can Junk The Excuses For Neglecting Exercise

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

From Theodore Roosevelt to John Kennedy, almost every president has preached the doctrine of physical fitness and has given an example of the virtues of what T. R. called "The Strenuous Life."

Unfortunately all too many of us have permitted ourselves to become soft and flabby. And as a result too many of us have developed creaking joints from being too long in dry dock. And the "loader's heart" from complete dependence on a motorized vehicle to take us on any trip that exceeds 100 yards.

Now among the many excuses we make for our slothfulness are lack of time, lack of the complicated equipment we see on TV commercials dedicated to the advancement of weight reduction and muscle-building, and our own advancing years.

We also cite the handicaps already imposed on us by joint disturbances of one sort or another, fear of imposing an added strain on an already burdened circulatory system, inability to meet the extra expenses of joining a gym, hiring an athletic instructor and so on.

Forgive me for telling you that there's no validity in these excuses. And, if you'll bear with verse.

In the first place, you won't lose enough real weight through ordinary exercises or calisthenics to make it worth your while. To be sure, the scales will show a loss of 3 to 5 pounds immediately after you worked out enough to get up a sweat.

But your tissues will soak up the water they've lost the next time you drink so much as a glass of water out of the tap. To say nothing of the contents of a bottle of your favorite carbonated beverage.

In the second place, the purpose of the physical fitness program I'm about to outline in another column is not muscle-building. That's for the lifesavers on the beach. Or the exhibitionists who seek to attract admiration by making you feel the hardness of their flexed arms.

The true and realistic purposes of the program are rather to add its mite to the weight-reducing diet that depends primarily on your efforts to eat less of the foods ordinarily served at table.

And to loosen your joints and stretch your muscles and tendons the way a cat or dog does after it has lazed in the sun or before a fire.

Words Young Bridegrooms Become Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a young bridegroom gets tired of hearing:

"It's one of the nicest apartments we have. Of course, you realize we require three months' deposit in advance."

"I don't see why you object to carrying lunch in your briefcase, Roderick. I thought it was a kind of status symbol to do that."

"I don't know about your house, but in our house father always carried out the garbage—and he did it without grumbling, too."

"Frankly, young man, I don't see why the firm should pay you more money just because you got married. This is a business organization, not a welfare bureau."

"It's a letter from your friend Tom. He wants you to take the remaining week of your vacation and go deer hunting with him. Naturally, you'll have to tell him it's out of the question."

"I know you may be a bit hard up, my boy, but the time is now, guard your family future is safe. Lemme see now. If you put $13.67 a week into our combined investment and insurance policy, at the end of 112 years you'll be financially secure for life."

"I'd be glad to sew on the button for you, Roderick, but mother never taught me how."

"Don't act like a child, Roderick. Of course, we simply must get a rug. Everybody has a rug on the floor these days. Anyway, our lease requires it."

"I've gone over our budget until I'm blue in the face. If we scrimp and save every penny, as near as I can figure it, we can afford to dine out at a restaurant about the middle of next July."

"Why can't you stay and have another one with the boys, Rod? Who wears the pants in your house?"

"Oh, I have wonderful news, Roderick. Mother is coming to spend the holidays with us. You really won't mind sleeping on the sofa, will you?"

"You never talked to me that way on our honeymoon. If I had known that's the kind of man you are, I never would have—"

"Tell me, Roderick, you don't ever secretly wish you were a bachelor again, do you?"

To Attend Circuit Meet

A delegation of about 16 from Sedalia will attend a three-day Circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at Independence, Dec. 1-3, it was announced today by Walter H. Meyer, presiding minister of the Sedalia congregation. The site, the National Guard Armory, 2323 South Chrysler Avenue.

"No other people in the entire world," said Meyer, "have been noted for their assemblies of this kind than have Jehovah's Witnesses. A 20th Century International Society of Christian ministers."

Friday evening the delegates from Sedalia and over 35 nearby Missouri communities will hear Watchtower representative Angelo C. Manera, Jr., deliver the keynote address, "Assisting One Another To Do God's Will," which will set the theme for the assembly program. Manera, district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, has been a featured speaker for many like assemblies held throughout the great Midwest. In 1960, Manera was one of the principle speakers at the "Peace Pursuing District Assembly" held at A's Stadium in Kansas City, Missouri.

S. A. Jensen, circuit supervisor for the 17 congregations in Mid-Central Missouri will also be a featured speaker on the program with Manera. Jensen will conduct a Friday night meeting program designed to increase the effectiveness of the ministerial activities of Jehovah's Witnesses. This work is peculiar only to Jehovah's Witnesses, who actively preach God's Kingdom in over 180 lands.

Much preparation goes into an assembly of this nature, and thereby all those who attend the assembly find their talents appreciated. For instance, Meyer said, "I am in charge of the auditing department at the coming assembly. In this position I will have to see that all expenses are paid."

Upwards of 600 are expected as far as the Arkansas state line.

Busy Stitchers Club In November Meeting

The Busy Stitchers Club held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Horace DeHaven at which time plans were made for the annual club turkey dinner to be held with Mrs. Charles Gee on the evening of Dec. 15.

Roll call was answered with something we are thankful for.

An article, "Now the Problem Is Retired Businessmen's Wives," was read by Mrs. Charles Gee.

Mrs. Charles Schneider led a game in which Mrs. Claude Leither was the winner.

A contributive dinner was served to six members, three children and one guest, Mrs. Leo DeHaven.

Advertisements Used In Sermons And Devotions

At the WMS meeting of the East Sedalia Baptist Church those present were made to realize that portions of magazine and newspaper advertisements could be applied to devotions, sermons and programs in order to make others see that "Christ Is The Way."

Mrs. Owen Fox, program chairman, carrying out the yearly theme "That Thy Way May Be Known," continued to take her listeners on a make-believe tour of foreign countries. The countries learned of this time were France, Okinawa, Viet Nam and Sumatra.

Mrs. Joe Waters and Mrs. Wayne Rhoades, seated at a "breakfast table," were surprised to see how well they could apply advertising phrases to their work in the missionary program. They also brought out that far-away places, through material products such as chinaware, cloth and spices are brought close to us each day in our every day living. Recorded portions of the lesson were given by Mrs. Ruth Long, Mrs. B. C. Decker, Mrs. Owen Fox and Mrs. Kenneth Davidson. Mrs. Fox read portions of the 14th chapter of St. John and Mrs. Earl Parker closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Kenneth Neill, WMS president, presided at the executive and business meetings. The meeting was opened by all singing the missionary hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign," followed by prayer by Mrs. Reuben Barrick. Mrs. Neill read a Thanksgiving poem. The pin was presented to the Connelly Circle which had forty-three percent of its members in attendance at the October meeting. Mrs. E. L. Langdon, stewardship chairman, told of the Lottie Moon Christmas offering which is to be reviewed in December. Members are urged to increase their giving by 14 percent. Mrs. Joe Waters, G. A. director, reported on the mother and daughter banquet. Mrs. Ed Worley was approved as co-counselor for the Junior G. A.'s.

On recommendation of the executive committee the society voted to send money to their "adopted daughter," who is attending the Seminary in Kansas City; also to contribute to the Mars-Truett fund, and to purchase tulip bulbs and evergreens for the planter on the church lawn.

Individual circle meetings will be on Dec. 7. The mission study book "Hands Across the Sea" will be held at the church Tuesday, Dec. 12 from 9 a.m. until noon with Mrs. Eugene Rowell and Mrs. Aubrey L. Moore teaching. Mrs. Lloyd Abney, mission study chairman, will be in charge of arrangements.

BIG EIGHT CONFERENCE 1961

BIG EIGHT ALL STARS—This is the Big Eight All Star team as chosen for The Associated Press. Ends: Jerry Hillebrand, Colorado, and Conrad Hatcher, Missouri; tackles: Billy White, Oklahoma, and Ed Blaine, Missouri; guards: Joe Romig, Colorado, and Dan Celoni, Iowa State; center: Walter Klinker, Colorado; backs: John Hadl, Kansas; Curtis McClinton, Kansas; Dave Hoppmann, Iowa State; Bill Thornton, Nebraska. (AP Wirephoto).

By SKIPPER PATRICK
Big Jerry Hillebrand, a pro-type end, and two other linemen of the Orange Bowl bound Colorado Buffaloes landed berths on the Associated Press Big Eight Football All Stars, it was announced today.

Joe Romig, a scholarly 196-pound senior guard who started slow because of injuries but finished strong, and Walter Klinker, a 202-pound senior center, were other Buffaloes drawing the nod from writers, broadcasters, scouts and coaches participating in the selections.

The 240-pound Hillebrand, native of Davenport, Iowa, was one of the better scorers in the Big Eight and was a great defensive player. His 38 points on three touchdowns, 11 conversions and three field goals indicate he will be a sharp weapon against Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl. He is a senior.

Missouri and Iowa State each won two first team spots. Oklahoma's strong finishing Sooners and Nebraska each placed one player on the mythical unit.

Conrad Hatcher, Missouri's 206-pound junior end who missed the Tigers' 10-7 victory over Kansas because he broke a leg a week earlier, was a solid favorite for the other end.

There is little or no difference in the ability of the interior linemen on the first and second units. Dan Celoni, Iowa State's 203-pound senior, who was a terror the first half of the season before he slowed with injuries, gained the other guard berth.

Edward Blaine of Missouri, a 217-pound senior, and Billy White of Oklahoma, a 202-pounder and also a senior, won the tackle berths.

The first center assignment went to Klinker in a very close contest with Kent Staab of Kansas and Wayne Lee of Oklahoma. The trio was easily the class of the league's middle men.

A powerful and versatile backfield that had everything included Dave Hoppmann of Iowa State, Curtis McClinton and John Hadl of Kansas and Bill Thornton of Nebraska.

Hoppmann, a 176-pound junior, rushed for 820 net yards and won the rushing title for the second straight season. The tough little man from Madison, Wis., also picked up 718 yards passing and was a national leader in total offense late in the season, although he sat out a game against a weak foe because of injuries. Tiger halfback Bill Tobin, who scored the only touchdown in the Minnesota game and was top man in beating three other teams, failed to get sufficient support for the first or second All Star units.

Others making the second team were ends Ken Blair, Colorado, and Don Purcell, Nebraska; tackles Frank Parker, Oklahoma State, and Wegener; center Staab, and backs Jim Dillard, Oklahoma State; Jimmy Carpenter, Oklahoma; Loren Schweninger, Colorado and Weidner.

HONORABLE MENTION:
E-Larry Montre, Iowa State; Dick McDaniel, Nebraska; Benny Boydston, Kansas; Don Wainwright, Missouri; Darrell Elder, Kansas State; Ronny Payne, Oklahoma.

T-Stan Kirshman and Larry Lousch, Kansas; Jerry Wallace, Missouri; Gary Toogood, Nebraska; John Denvir and Jim Perkins, Colorado.

G-Paul Henley and Tom Hertz, Missouri; Gary Cutsinger, Oklahoma State; Dallas Dyer, Nebraska; Ralph Heck, Colorado; Bob Noblitt, Kansas State.

C-Wayne Lee, Oklahoma; Al Koumeski, Kansas State.
B-Ron Taylor, Bill Tobin, Andy Russell and Norm Beal, Missouri; Ken Coleman and Rodger McFarland, Kansas; Mike McClellan, Phil Lohmann and Bob Page, Oklahoma; Bill Harris, Colorado; Bill McFarland, Oklahoma State; Dave Hoover, Iowa State; Dennis Claridge, Nebraska.

LaRosa Beats Austin In A Death Match

Wrestling fans saw something new and different in the local ring as to competition between two big heavyweights, Guy La Rosa and Buddy Austin who had worked up a heated rivalry the past several weeks. La Rosa ended the meetings by beating Austin in a "death" match.

The match was to last until one or the other gave up, and it wasn't until after six falls had been scored and Austin finally "had it". La Rosa took the first fall in seven minutes and 47 seconds with a reverse pin; won the second in two minutes and 39 seconds with a leg stretch. Then Austin took the next in two minutes flat with a body press and the fourth in six minutes and 24 seconds with the Indian death lock. La Rosa won the fifth in eight minutes and 35 seconds with a press and the sixth in one minute and 48 seconds when Austin was out.

In the semi-final event Farmer McGruder and Pee Wee Lopez met Tiny Bell and Marcel Semard. Lopez won the first fall in nine minutes and 42 seconds when he beat Tiny Bell with a reverse leg lock. The second fall went to Semard over McGruder in four minutes with Semard applying several drop kicks and a press. The third fall was won by Bell over Lopez in four minutes and ten seconds using a body press. Thor Hagen and Duke Hoffman, went 2 minutes to a draw in their special event.

The opening event between Ray Gordon and Karl Von Schober was won by Gordon when the German was disqualified by the referee after 11 minutes and 21 seconds had passed.

Wrestling matches will be held next Tuesday night, December 5th, a change being made necessary in the scheduling of Convention Hall at Liberty Park.

Next week topping the bill will be "Bulldog" Lee Henning, who is returning to the ring after several months layoff following an operation last spring. Henning has been preparing himself to resume wrestling the past two months. The favorite to many and vil-

Man Recovering From Fall Into Fallout Shelter

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—John Rowe is back at work after spending 19 days recovering from a fall into his fallout shelter.

The 12 x 36-foot underground shelter he built brought lavish praise from civil defense engineers. Such crowds came to see the model shelter that Rowe bought a $10,000 insurance policy as protection in case anyone got hurt around it.

He discovered a hitch in the policy after he fell through the escape hatch, cracking several ribs. He wasn't covered.

PLAYWRIGHT—Pete Previte, clubhouse attendant, performs the job he gets paid for in the Yankee Stadium clubhouse. Clearly shown on the blackboard is the job Previte didn't get paid for. The play-of-the-day for the New York Giants in their victory over the Philadelphia Eagles was conceived by Previte and the deep-crossover pass pattern resulted in a 62-yard touchdown. The ball was thrown by Y. A. Tittle to Erich Barnes, who with Jim Patton, the other defensive halfback, was in his first offensive play as a pro.

Symington Says Backing Down May Bring War

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"I am anxious to continue negotiations, if for no other reason than to have the Russians know that we are able to destroy them," Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Tuesday.

The senator included the remark in a speech to a women's civic club. He also said one of the greatest dangers that could lead to war would be for Russia's Khrushchev to believe that the West would not defend itself.

Sen. Symington is head of a Senate Foreign Relations Committee sub-committee on Near-East and South Asian affairs and most of his talk was devoted to problems in that sphere.

He said the United States must not let the communists destroy South Vietnam because this almost certainly would lead to communist conquests of Laos and Cambodia.

In a chain reaction, Burma and Thailand probably would be lost and the governments of India and Malaya would be endangered.

Without American aid, he added, South Vietnam would have been taken over by the Communists long ago.

Rod, Gun Club Plans Trap Shoot Derby

The Sedalia Rod and Gun Club will hold a 50-target sliding handi-cap trap shoot derby this Sunday. It is one of numerous events which the club will be sponsoring through the winter months.

Also scheduled for Sunday will be an old fashioned turkey shoot for hams, bacon and turkeys.

The firing line will open at 2 o'clock and members are expected to be prepared for the competition.

Co-Op's Founder Plans to Resign

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Howard A. Cowden, founder and former president of the Consumers Co-operative Association announced his resignation as chairman of the organization's board of directors.

Cowden, in announcing his resignation Tuesday night, said he would complete his term as a director. It will run until 1963.

The association's board is expected to elect a new chairman today.

Win Third Straight On Home Court

Sedalia's Hubbard Tigers pulled in their third straight victory Tuesday night when they defeated MSD of Fulton 77-51 before the home crowd. It was Hubbard's first home game this season.

Hubbard's "B" team came out equally well, whipping MSD 44-32. High for Hubbard in the junior contest was Gary Rhodes with 10 points, followed by Richard Cole with nine. For MSD it was Hatfield with 15.

In the varsity contest, the Tigers, showing every indication of being as strong this season as last, when they compiled an aggressive 22-3 won-loss record, opened Tuesday's game with a two-point edge over MSD at the end of the first quarter. A 27-point second period attack, however, carried the Tigers well away from MSD.

Ronald Johnson, the Tiger guard and returning letterman, one of the big point producers for the Tigers, dropped in 15 field goals and three charity tosses for a 33-point winning contribution. Glenn Whitney and Eugene Holt, also returning lettermen, dropped in 14 and 13 points respectively to pad the drive spearheaded by Johnson.

For MSD, Manion dropped in 12 field goals and three free throws in an effort to offset Johnson's attack, but his 27 points fell short of his goal. Morris and Kerby dropped in eight points each to follow Manion's performance.

Hubbard will face Manual Vocational High of Kansas City Dec. 9 in their second home game of the season. Manual is the holder of the Kansas City Co-Championship for the 1960-61 season. The Tigers whipped Manual Nov. 22 in a game played in Kansas City.

Score by quarters:
Hubbard 15 27 19 14-77
MSD 13 18 12 8-51
Individual scoring: Hubbard—Eugene Holt 13; Ronald Smith 11; Glenn Whitney 14; Sherman Buckner 2; Ronald Johnson 33; William Myles 2; Richard Cole 2; MSD—Morris 8; Tipton 2; Kerby 8; Manion 27; McMunn 4; Butler 2.

Sacred Heart Team Wins Over Stover

Sacred Heart's steadily improving Gremlins trounced Stover 74-57 in a second-day game in the Warsaw Invitational Tournament Tuesday night.

The Gremlins never lost sight of their ultimate goal as they snatched an early seven point lead from Stover's Bulldogs in the first quarter. Stover failed to muster any sizable threat throughout the game, even though Darrel Shackelford, one of their most formidable players, dropped in 25 points for the Dogs.

The absence of Sacred Heart's "Big John" Herring was noticeable, but it did not prevent the Gremlins from taking advantage of almost every opportunity. Leonard Butler alone made up for "Big John's" absence when he looped in 12 field goals and four charity tosses for 28 markers. Jim Friedebach, another Sacred Heart reliable, backed him up with 13 points.

In the volleyball game, Sacred Heart's girls came out on the short end of a duel with Cole Camp, 58-10. Cole Camp's girls dominated play from the very beginning, holding a 20-point edge over the locals at half time. High for Sacred Heart was Virginia Stohr, who whipped three perfect scores across the net, while for Cole Camp, C. Eickhoff led the attack with 13 points.

Score by quarters:
Sacred Heart 19 13 18 24-74
Stover 12 10 13 22-57

Trailer Homes Might Have To Prove Mobility

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—When is a mobile home a mobile home? Only when it can move, says Councilman Nortney P. Cox, who wants the city to require proof of mobility before exempting mobile homes from property taxes.

He suggested an ordinance requiring house trailers to pass a highway test each month—just as the city requires boats tied at the city dock to prove their seaworthiness with a four-hour cruise each month.

"Most of these trailers are not mobile," he said. "They are fixed permanent homes. But we get no taxes from them, either real estate or personal property."

The talks, which have thus far produced no major agreements, are the only diplomatic contact between the two powers.

Senator Speeds Through Angry Mob in Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—U.S. Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., crouched on the floor of the American consul's automobile Tuesday night as the driver sped through an angry mob of Katangan paratroopers. The paratroopers earlier had dragged two white U.N. officials from a dinner party and beat them with rifle butts.

Anti-U.N. violence mounted in the Katangan capital in the wake of the U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing U.N. troops to use force to arrest foreign mercenaries serving Katanga President Moise Tshombe's secessionist regime.

Dodd, guest of honor at a dinner party given by an American, arrived with Consul Louis Hoffacker as the paratroopers were beating the two U.N. officials, a Briton and an Australian.

Hoffacker rescued the Australian, put him and Dodd on the floor of the car and drove them to the home of Tshombe, whom Dodd has praised in Senate speeches. Tshombe's personal guard finally secured the Briton's release.

Shapely Rose Queen Is Psychology Major

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Shapely, brown-haired Martha Sissell, a psychology major at Pasadena City College, today was selected queen of the 73rd Tournament of Roses Association.

The 18-year-old freshman won out over 2,200 City College coeds for the traditional honor, the Tournament of Roses Association announced.

Miss Sissell, a 5-foot-7, brown-eyed beauty, says she enjoys baking cookies, reading, keeping a scrapbook, swimming, golf and football.

Banishing Hunger Powerful Deterrent

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said Tuesday banishing the fear of hunger and famine in the world was a greater power than guns or bullets.

Only the free and democratic people have achieved the abundance of food and fiber that uncertain nations seek, he said.

Freeman said the strongest deterrent to the spread of communism was the contrast between American agriculture and that of the Communists.

Soviets Sought UN Explanation On Cease-fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union, in a letter published Tuesday, pressed acting Secretary-General U Thant to explain on what authority U.N. officials approved cease-fire between Katanga and U.N. forces.

U Thant replied that U.N. officials ratified the agreement last month as a military necessity under the general authority of past U.N. resolutions.

At the height of last week's Security Council debate on giving more strength to U Thant's directives in the Congo, Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin wrote the secretary-general and asked him to name the U.N. officials involved in the cease-fire. The United Nations then published the exchange of letters.
